Holiday Party Blast!

What a terrific holiday party we had in December. The platters from the deli worked out wonderfully, even though they weren't from Billy's, where we usually get them. The salads were great, the meat and cheese plates delicious, and the olives and other condiments were the perfect accompaniments.

Thanks to everyone who participated in making this such a super event, from bringing the coin-o materials, to picking up the food and bringing other goodies, it really made a wonderful time for all of us who attended!

For those of you with Internet access, I've posted the photos taken that night on the club website (www.gcc.f2s.com).

As a record of the coin-o winners:

- 1st game—Lisa Koerner
- 2nd game—Ryan Ballard
- 3rd game—Steve Rycewicz
- 4th game—Beth Watson
- 5th game—Chris Watson

6th game—Tom Redmond
Games 1 through 5 paid off in silver eagles, and game 6 was a black-out 50/50 paying $16.50.

Oh, yes, during the meeting we also drew for the December Attendance Prize (a silver eagle), which was won by Jerry Yahalom.

Dues Past Due

In case you forgot, the miniscule GCC dues we collect yearly are now past due. Please help support the club and ease the Treasurer's job by paying at the January meeting. The dues are the same as last year: $7 individual; $10 family (one newsletter to a single address); and $70 for a lifetime membership.

Get Well Dorsille

We got word at the December meeting that Dorsille was bit on the hand by a dog (hers? I'm not sure)...anyway, it turns out Dorsille had to have stitches to her hand. Hope it feels better by the time you read this, Dorsille. Hopefully we'll get to see you and Earl at the January meeting.

Website Jeopardy

Icky-poo! I found out in the last week or so that the host for our GCC website (located at www.gcc.f2s.com) is planning on eliminating the free hosting sometime in February. That means I (we) have to find a new host — not a major problem, but I've always wanted to stay away from big banners and pop-ups, and I really liked the FrontPage 2000 support the Freedom2surf servers had.

My brother-in-law, Andrey, works at Earthlink and thinks they may be amenable to hosting the site for free if we put a button there and give them credit for it...sounds good if it works out. Well, I'm listening if anyone has any other ideas.

An Email

I received an email about our website the other day...

I'm and eighth grade student at Candlewood Middle School. My tech teacher was telling us how nails are weighted in pennies. He also said instead of the box saying 16 p, it says 16 d. He didn't know why the symbol for pennies was a "d" instead of a "p".

This question was boggling my mind. So I decided to go to askjeeves.com to see if I can find anything about that. I came across your site and how it says that pennies were once called Novus Denarius. I figured that that could be the reason why it says "d". But I decided to read more and just about two paragraphs away I saw that the symbol for pennies is a "d".

So the whole point about me writing this letter to you is because I just want to say that I think your site is terrific and that it can teach people a lot. I never knew that pennies had a history to them until now. So thank you for your site; I'm sure the tech teacher will be happy to know why the symbol is a "d".

Thanks, Jamie

Card from Joyce

We got a holiday card from Joyce Allen that was passed along to me at the December meeting. She writes:

*Dear Greg and Gang,
I have been in Idaho since June 1st. That is the earliest date that I could fly after my triple by-pass surgery, which I think was caused by diabetes.*

The really hard thing about leaving California was separation from my friends and fellow members of the Glendale Coin Club

I hope you will, or some of the gang, stop by when traveling east or up the coast. I miss all of you. Have a happy holiday season.

Fondly, <Joyce Allen>
